

To our customers,

Here at Carrolls Suspension, we're taking all official COVID-19 updates seriously. The health and safety of our staff and valued customers remains our top priority.

We are following all advice from the Australian Government and World Health Organisation in regard to their recommendations for minimising the spread of the virus. We have been preparing our teams in regard to best hygiene practices and have also instructed them to refrain from coming into work if they have any flu-like symptoms or believe they may have been exposed to the virus.

With the best safety measures in place, our branches remain open. So with these strategies in place it's business as usual, and currently all of our shipping and delivery services are operating as per usual. Our Sales Team is available to assist you with your orders, stock availability, price checks etc. Our Workshops and Factories are on hand to repair or manufacture any of your needs. Plans are also in place to keep up supply as we work through this difficult time.

We'll remain vigilant as we continue to supply our products to our valued customers and will closely monitor the situation over the coming weeks.

If there is anything we can do to assist your business during this time or have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact us.

Kind Regards

Clayton Mortensen
Group General Manager
